

Precision Micro

Precision Micro is the new Company formed following the amalgamation of Microponents and Micro Metallic, both World leading producers of high precision mechanical components in their own rights. Precision Micro has grown into one of the largest specialist components manufacturing operations in Europe, with a global customer base and a reputation for quality that's second to none.